Woman Killed In Shooting

Man Held Says He Did It

Argued By Lake At Cedar Bluffs

By DEL HARDING
Star Staff Writer

CEDAR BLUFFS, Neb.—A 44-year-old Omaha woman was fatally shot Sunday morning at a lake four miles north of here and her 23-year-old companion was being held on an open charge at the Saunders County Jail at Wahoo.

Dead on arrival at a Fremont hospital was Mary Ann Oglesby of 1924 Locust in Omaha. Held at Wahoo was Abe Marion Jr. of 2010 No. 22nd in Omaha. Deputy County Sheriff Charles Sayers said Marion told him he shot Miss Oglesby after an argument and fight.

The shooting occurred at the Cedar Bluffs Lake, a fishing area. Cedar Bluffs is 43 miles north of Lincoln.

Marion told Deputy Sayers that he, Miss Oglesby and two other men had gone to the lake to fish Sunday about 7 a.m. Sunday about 10:30 a.m. the men began roasting steaks for lunch.

Marion said Miss Oglesby, whom he had known about four years, complained he wasn't fixing her hot dog fast enough. An argument followed, Marion said, and a fight began. Marion said Miss Oglesby kicked him and scratched his face several times.

Marion said he got up from the lake shore, went to his car and took his .38 caliber revolver from the glove compartment. Then, he said he returned to the lake and fired at Miss Oglesby three times.

Returning to his car, he drove about a half-mile to the lake's office and gave himself up.

Marion said he knew what he was doing when he shot his companion, but added he was mad and his face was hurting where he had been scratched.

The deputy sheriff said an examination of the woman's body showed she had been hit twice by bullets—just below the left shoulder and at the left hip.

Sayers was on duty in the absence from town of County Sheriff Joe Davis. Sayers said no charges have yet been filed and added County Attorney George Haessler is out of town on vacation. He said he would attempt to contact Haessler and expected him to return soon to Wahoo.

Demos Begin Drafting Platform, Striving To Avoid Any Battle On Civil Rights

Farm Plank Strides Near Brannan Plan

CHICAGO (U) — Democratic platform writers Sunday began their drafting job in closed session with party leaders still striving to avoid any bitter battle on the civil rights issue.

The big question for the 16-man drafting committee is whether to mention support for the Supreme Court's public school antisegregation decision in the party platform.

Dixie delegates led by Gov. James P. Coleman of Mississippi were openly maneuvering to keep three words "Supreme Court decision" out of the platform entirely.

The platform committee staff was reported to have junked an initial civil rights proposal that made no mention of the court edict, leaving it to the committee to work out.

Both Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, platform committee chairman, said he hoped to come up with civil rights phrasing that could satisfy both the South and those Negro and other elements which want the court decision specifically approved in the platform.

What McCormack was trying to avoid was a divided committee stand. Separate majority and minority reports could force a convention floor fight and split the party at a time it needs solidarity for the campaign to unseat the Republican administration of President Eisenhower.

McCormack declined to say whether his peacekeeper role has been complicated by the endorsement of former President Truman gave to the presidential nomination campaign of Averell Harriman. McCormack said Harriman is "a man of great understanding who has a vital interest in party unity."

Near Brannan

CHICAGO (U) — Democratic platform makers are writing a farm plank that takes a great stride toward the controversial Brannan farm plan of 1949. But it will not be labeled as such.

The plank, as drafted by a party advisory committee and farm-minded members of the Platform Committee, will call for an agricultural program that would assure farmers full 100 per cent of parity of their products—up to a certain level.

Parity is a legal standard for measuring farm prices declared to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay for things they buy.

There would be a cut-off on such price guarantees to limit full benefits of the program to family-size units.

The plank also would use a number of methods to channel the guaranteed returns into farmers' pockets. One would be commodity loans at 90 per cent of parity for storage crops. Another would be broad use of government subsidies to make up differences between market prices or commodity loan receipts and the full parity guarantee.

Symington Willing If He Is Drafted

NEW YORK (U) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) went to the Chicago convention Sunday — no aspirant for the presidential nomination but willing to accept it if it came his way.

"I am not a candidate," Symington said as he and his wife left by plane.

Then, as reporters questioned him further, he said that "as an American and a citizen" he would take the nomination if it were offered to him.

Symington has been listed among dark horse prospects if the convention should deadlock.

Adlai Passes 500 Delegate Vote Total

CHICAGO (U) — Adlai E. Stevenson Sunday night forged past the 500 mark in the Associated Press tabulation of indicated first ballot strength for the Democratic presidential nomination. Averell Harriman went over 200 for the first time. The tabulation was based on state caucuses here as well as previously disclosed pledges and preferences.

The tally showed Stevenson at 509½, Harriman at 201, others 280, and uncommitted or undecided 381½.

It takes 686½ to win in the balloting set for Thursday.

The last previous tabulation just before Harry S. Truman's declaration for Harriman, was Stevenson 492, Harriman 174½, others 281½ and uncommitted 424.

Stevenson claims over 600 and Harriman supporters, partly on the basis of expected additions as a result of Truman's endorsement, claim at least 500.

Sen. Johnson, top man in the "others" group was Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas who has been indicating willingness to let the lightning strike him in case of a Stevenson-Harriman stalemate, with 58. Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio stood at 55.

Several delegations in which actual preferences were divided moved into solid ranks behind one or another candidate today on the basis of caucuses which bound them to the unit-voting rule.

A number of other delegations, in meetings Sunday, decided to hold off a first ballot commitment to see which way the cat jumps as a result of the Truman move.

Some of them had expected earlier to take a stand Sunday.

A long list of delegate shifts came last week as a result of the withdrawal in July of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee from the presidential nomination contest. He sought to throw his 164½ delegates to Stevenson but some went another way.

Nebraska' two members of the Republican Party's platform committee, former Gov. Robert Crosby of Lincoln and former Sen. Eve Bowring of Merriman plan to leave early for the party's national convention at San Francisco.

Crosby said Sunday the platform committee's first meeting is set for sometime early Thursday, but that he did not think he could be in the convention city earlier than Friday. He said he did not know when Mrs. Bowring planned to leave.

The work of the committee, he said, will be divided into subcommittees, with the entire platform coming before the group sometime Monday.

"There is nothing special I'm carrying a torch for," Crosby said, when asked if he planned to push anything particular at the platform sessions. He said he did not know about the other members of the Nebraska delegation, which is to be under the chairmanship of former Sen. Hazel Abel of Lincoln.

The convention, which will begin Aug. 20, promises special interest surrounding the question of the vice presidential nominee on the GOP slate.

According to Crosby, the Nebraska delegation has held no caucus on the question, though he said, "I myself am a Nixon man."

Gov. Victor Anderson, though not a delegate to the convention, plans to attend as an "interested observer." He plans to fly to San Francisco in a state plane, but said he will pay his own expenses. Accompanying the governor will be Republican State Chairman William W. Spear of Fremont.

CHICAGO (U) — Two young sisters, fresh from seeing a Western movie, engaged in a pistol-drawing contest in a friend's home Sunday.

One of the weapons discharged, killing their father, Manuel Martinez, 33.

The girls—Rebecca, 8, and Lucy 12—were playing with the pistols in the home of Antonio Aguller on the Southeast Side. Rebecca's gun, a .22 caliber revolver, discharged, the bullet striking Martinez in the abdomen.

Police sought to find out who owned the pistols.

South Moves Toward Action On Demo Power Balance

CHICAGO (U) — The South moved Sunday toward concerted action its leaders hope will give it the balance of power in the Democratic convention.

Delegations from Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas joined in a delaying strategy worked out by Southern members of the Platform Committee.

That plan, as outlined by Judge George Wallace of Alabama, Ala., is for the delegates to take no action on presidential candidates pending completion of a platform, including the explosive civil rights plank.

Several other Southern delegations, including Georgia, Virginia and South Carolina, have been asked to follow the plan, Wallace said.

Dixie Vote
Adlai Stevenson, frontrunner for the presidential nomination in various polls, is counting strongly on many votes from the South. But the Alabama delegation, in which his supporters had claimed around 20 votes, took no step Sunday to show its hand in the presidential balloting to come later this week.

Wallace said he and other Platform Committee members believed Southern influence would be strengthened if Southern delegations left presidential candidates in the dark as to their intentions. "People in all camps feel," Wallace said, "that the South will exert more influence at this convention than it has in any other in many years."

It took 43 ballots to settle the convention—the Democratic convention of 1920—and in the early morning hours of Tuesday, July 6, tired and worn delegates said they had had enough. James M. Cox, an outstanding American journalist, a friend of this writer, stepped into the lead when the 38th ballot was taken. Cox had started third in the voting, soon passed A. Mitchell Palmer, Woodrow Wilson's attorney general, and then William G. MacAdoo, Wilson's son-in-law.

On July 6, 1920, more in prophetic spirit than it possibly could know then, The Lincoln Star said this:

"Mr. Harding stands with his face to the past ... Mr. Cox looks to the future."

After every great war there is the struggle against privilege and against those who would exploit the many for the gain of the few. After every great war there is the raid upon natural resources—the type of raid which has been occupying the attention of Democratic platform builders throughout the last week here in Chicago.

There in the full flush of triumph, James Cox was baring his heart to the American people. There upon the yellowed pages of The Lincoln Star his words in 1920 seem to be an echo of so much that is said today. "The Golden Rule works better than the bullet or the bayonet," Cox said. And then turning his face to home he added that "those in public places must guard the freedom of the many from the exploits of the few."

Sounds familiar.
Last time I heard that in substance was five minutes ago in the lobby of the Conrad Hilton when a man seemed to be addressing no one especially and everyone particularly.

Adlai Stevenson, it is said, will be a shoe-in in this convention. It won't be long now. If he is a shoe-in, then his fellow Democrats will have shooed him in in a matter of a little more than a hundred hours from now. They say the first hundred hours are the hardest.

And these conventions, if they are to catch fire and light the distant horizons of this nation, must look to the fights to select vice presidential nominees as running mates for the heads of the tickets.

We are still fascinated by the parallels which bind 1920 to 1956. It was that strange, shy, silent Calvin Coolidge who was nominated with Warren Harding and Coolidge took over when Harding died in the famous old Palace Hotel in San Francisco.

Cox had kind words for his young, athletic running mate. "I am not intimately acquainted with him," Cox was reported in The Star to have said, "but I know him to be a vigorous, upstanding, courageous and progressive Democrat. I recall particularly two addresses which he gave—one before the Democratic National Committee and the other in my home city of Dayton on Americanization. His service in Washington has given him a wide acquaintance."

And who was this young running mate?
He was a man who became known as "F.D.R."—the only man ever to be elected to four consecutive terms as President—a man beloved by millions of his countrymen—disliked intensely by millions of others.

We rode through sections of Wyoming, Nebraska and Iowa on the campaign train of that young running mate. In those campaign trips we saw him at the bottom of his political popularity. Twelve years later, on a 1,500-mile campaign trip through the same region, we saw him starting towards the amazing crest of his fame.

It is a strange reflection of the convention system in a free country that not infrequently the thunder of yesterday becomes the subdued echoes of today—or vice versa—the faint, almost inaudible stirring along the horizon mounts to the full fury of the storm.

We are back again to a scene so familiar to cover these national conventions in the hope that through a mixture of the past and a recital of current developments, the picture of a beautiful land will fall into place.

More To Be Told

Speculation that President Eisenhower may ask Congress to re-convene if the Suez dispute deteriorates sufficiently preceded his special conference Sunday with congressional leaders of both parties.

It left the public in a mixed mind. Is the administration introducing a new manner of bipartisan treatment of critical international problems, or is the Suez situation worse than the treatment the news has given it to be?

The latter question is entitled to quick clarification. America should know where it stands and what portends. It has been reasonable to assume that the West is not on the brink of war, to borrow a phrase from Secretary of State Dulles. Presumably he calculated that a few weeks ago when he summarily denied Egypt aid in the construction of the Aswan dam. That was the act that brought seizure of the canal as Premier Nasser's answer, introducing the chain of events that has been characterized at once by preparations for a show of force by both Britain and France and by Dulles' own delaying action in persuading the two Western powers to practice restraint pending an international conference on the future of the canal and the settlement of the current dispute. It has not been made public that in both of those far reaching decisions Mr. Dulles considered them critical enough to searchingly consult either the United States Congress or Britain and France. From that it is reasonable to assume that he acted on knowledge that the consequences would be manageable. The questions and actions now arising call for a reassuring answer.

Not Agriculture's Boom

There were sounds of pleasure in financial circles at week end when reports drifted out from Wall Street that 1956 will top 1955's boom level and that corporate profits are expected to be record breakers.

News of prosperity is infectious and it would be nice if all Americans were on the winning end of this profit procession. But it hardly applies to the agricultural regions, especially this part where a combination of curtailed acreages, drought and sub-marginal prices is slowing down the economy.

The current boom is like a cannon. It depends upon which end one is standing. The boom consists of full employment, a steady rise in wages and a concurrent rise in prices. It can be expected that the recent wage raises granted by U.S. Steel and the chain reaction of price rises that will emanate from Steel's $8.50 per ton hike of steel prices will have a levitating effect on the national income. But it is of an inflationary nature. If all segments of the economy are to keep pace with it they must likewise receive proportionately more for that which they produce.

When one considers those facts, the pleasure of hearing such bullish boom news pales. As before it is turning out to be the other fellow's boom.

A Word To Policy Makers

As Nebraskans view their fields and meditate upon the capriciousness of nature they could speak some words of sound advice to the platform makers of the Democratic party who have been hammering out platform recommendations on agriculture.

One comment would be a word of approbation for the party's emphasis on parity. By whatever methods an agricultural program is developed it is true that conditions can neither be just nor free of trouble unless the agricultural dollar is of the same value as other dollars. Flexible, fixed price supports or other devices are incidental to the essential demand for parity.

Another piece of advice is that the national crop controls can be no more effective than on-the-farm controls. A sound approach to that is greater conservation and the greater reduction of factors that deal capriciously with production.

But the third and equally vital factor is a radical departure from the philosophy of Agriculture Secretary Benson with its determination to change the nation's agricultural pattern in too great haste. It would be inconceivable to order up a quick and drastic change, for instance, in the design and function of automobiles, or to change radically the direction of any great business or industrial enterprise. It is equally inadvisable to bring fundamental farming policy change into collision with established patterns. A suitable period of readjustment is essential if the nation is to carry its agricultural industry through the changes without dangerous and unnecessary harm. When a review of the Benson approach has finally been sifted the charge of over-abruptness will loom larger than the working out of any of his theories.

To Be Remembered

Before the American public closes the book on the Grand Canyon air collision last June which took the lives of 128 passengers when the two planes crashed on the canyon floor, some thought-provoking evidence presented at the subsequent Civil Aeronautics Board inquiry should be reviewed.

More than 30 minutes before the crash both planes had radioed control centers they were headed for the same point over the Painted Desert and would reach there at the same altitude at the same time. It was also revealed that the Airline Pilots Association had repeatedly warned that the location was a collision breeder and it predicted that one would inevitably occur unless steps were taken for more security.

The question arises, if the control centers knew 30 minutes beforehand that a collision was probably in the making why were not steps taken to warn the planes, to alter flying altitudes or re-route one of the planes?

The testimony said nothing of that nature was done and explained that it was not the function of the control center to take such steps. Besides the volume of traffic and the lack of sufficient force prevented such precise charting. It seems utterly indefensible that officials in charge of CAB who have been so intent on economy and so little convinced that a general reorganization of air commerce control is overdue would permit known and unnecessary insecurity to exist. Yet that is the evidence adduced at the inquiry.

He Should Read

Senator Joe McCarthy, who is now only heard from on occasion, wrapped up the Suez crisis for the newsmen the other day in short order. Said he, "We should send in battle vessels of the necessary size to clear up the mouth of the harbor and the canal and make sure we have got the same free use of the canal that we had previously . . ." The most fitting counter comment to that is that the senator would be better off if he were as diligently reading the news as he would like to be making it. There has been no stoppage of traffic, no barring of use by agreement between the canal company and the Nasser government. It is the cash drawer that Egypt is after and presently it is the more use of the canal, the more cash.

Demo Convention A Natural For Harry

CHICAGO — Harry Truman can look back on a lot of things in Chicago this week. . . twelve years ago, he, a relatively obscure senator from Missouri, was sitting on a Coca Cola crate in an outer corridor of the Chicago amphitheater munching a hotdog. Suddenly he was told he was nominated vice president of the United States. . . he had come to Chicago to nominate Jimmie Byrnes of South Carolina, No. 2 man of the Roosevelt administration. Byrnes was the big wheel, the assistant president. Truman was just a "tough Senate prober. He had a speech in his pocket all written out, lauding Byrnes. . . he lunched with Sidney Hillman, head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, a potent influence in war production councils. After that he threw the speech away. . . Jimmie Byrnes went back to South Carolina in a towering rage. Arthur Krock coined the phrase, "clear it with Sidney." . . one year later momentous events had transpired. Byrnes was back in Washington as Secretary of State in the cabinet of the man who was going to nominate him but didn't.

Saved by a gavel — Yes, Harry Truman, who believes in history, can look back on a lot of momentous events, some of the public never knew about, some that even he didn't know about. . . there was the big Henry Wallace rally Wednesday night calculated to roll him into renomination for vice president. . . there was no balloting for president. FDR was renominated by acclamation. But the balloting for vice president was scheduled for that night, and Wallace cohorts had banners ready for a mighty surge through the convention hall. They staged their surge, a convincing show of strength by the man who already sat as vice president. They were ready in the wake of that surge to vote for vice president . . . but the party bosses who wanted Wallace out and Truman in, ruled differently. Senator Sam Jackson of Indiana, the convention chairman, gavelled the meeting to a close. The voting, he yelled above the shouts of "no! no! no!" would begin on Thursday. . . it was a crucial event in history. . . if it hadn't happened that way, how different history might have been; Wallace as vice president, then president. Our relations with Russia? What would they have been?

Dragoning Adlai—Yes, there's a lot of history Harry Truman can look back on—the 1952 convention when he was still president and wanted to be a president-maker. It was his turn to sit in the little room under the rostrum telling delegates how to switch. His man, Adlai Stevenson, the genuinely reluctant candidate, got in. Estes Kefauver, the man Truman hated, was sidetracked, not only for president, but vice president. . . Harry then found his man reluctant on other things. He was reluctant to have the President of the United States campaign for him. . . the president did campaign anyway—in the way he had long found most effective. He can look back on that long whistle-stop—across the U.S.A. and back—with personal satisfaction, but that is all. Truman had his old fire, his old give-em-hell. But it was sad, in a way. The crowds weren't there. He gave his most devastating attack on Eisenhower, the man who had once been his chief of staff, blaming him for the troubles at Berlin, showing how he was commander-in-chief in Potsdam when the lopsided deals with the Russians were put across. . . that was the end of a fine friendship. Eisenhower never spoke to him after that, wouldn't get out of the car to greet him as they drove to the Capitol on inauguration day, hadn't ever invited him back to the White House.

A Fast Game Of Dog And Cricket

A cricket in the house is supposed to bring good luck. It might do it, too, if the circumstances were just right. Not at our house, though.

Our house is not set up for crickets. It has two dachshunds in it, and I do not think the old superstition took into consideration a house containing two enthusiastic cricket-hunting hounds like Jeep and Gypsy.

There is some controversy, also, about whether it was a cricket, a cicada or a locust that infiltrated our quarters. Mrs. F. said it couldn't have been a cricket because it didn't fiddle, and everyone knows crickets fiddle. I have tried to point out to her that it just didn't have time.

It might have had more leisure if it had not gone directly to Jeep's nose the minute it got into the house. Jeep was sleeping in my lap at the moment. It took him a few seconds to wake up. Meanwhile I saw the insect settling down as if for a long stay.

"Look, a cricket," I said to Mrs. F. "that's good luck."

Mrs. F. saw one of Jeep's eyes come open, and tried to think of a quick warning. "Timber—r-r!" was the only thing she could recall at the instant. Her cry came too late.

My lap is ample for the usual purposes to which a lap is put, like holding napkins, but it does not provide much room for a dachshund to maneuver in pursuit of a cricket. This is particularly true if the dachshund has had his feelings hurt, and Jeep appeared to think it an assault on his dignity that a cricket should light on his nose.

There was a small but violent whirlwind of movement on my lap, then the battle climbed to my chest and onto my shoulders. My chair went over backwards, taking a floor lamp with it, and I made strangled sounds. Mrs. F. criticized me severely later, because she said the noises sounded like "Yoicks!", which is a hunting cry.

Whatever it sounded like, it attracted Gypsy, the other dachshund. I am her favorite, and she conceived that Jeep was attacking me. She came in slashing. The diversion gave the cricket time to retire under my shirt, which by now was flapping its tails in the whirlwind. Jeep went after it, and Gypsy went after Jeep.

Mrs. F. alibied afterward by saying she was laughing so hard she didn't even have time to call the maternally ward, much less come to my assistance.

As I told Mrs. F. later, with some satisfaction, I was laughing too hard even to call a talent scout, much less go to her help.

The cricket, disgusted with the turmoil, went out the same window by which it had come in a few minutes earlier.

I cannot see that it brought us a great deal of good fortune.

Soft Drink Folks Shoulder Each Other

CHICAGO — When you call the headquarters of Adlai Stevenson on the phone, a brisk voice sings out, "Stevenson - for - President Headquarters," call Gov. Harriman and you get "Harriman-Ford President Headquarters," call Happy Chandler and it's "Chandler-Ford President Headquarters." That goes for all the favorite son's headquarters, too.

But when you call Estes Kefauver's headquarters the phone rings for a time and then a glum voice says:

"Hello."

Cong. Charles Diggs of Michigan, liberal Michigan Governor Soapy Williams' representative on the platform committee, asked Harry S. Truman a basic English question on civil rights the other day.

What guide would Mr. Truman offer to the committee in the writing of a 1956 civil rights plank?

Mr. Truman looked him in the eye and replied:

"I thought the 1948 and 1952 planks were good. I preferred the '48 one because I ran on it and got elected. In 1952 at Potsdam I suggested to those fellows—argued with them for two days—that we internationalize the Panama Canal, Suez Canal, Kiel Canal, Rhine-Danube waterway and all the other places like that."

Congressman Diggs, a Negro undertaker, remained standing while Truman was answering the question. But that was that.

We braced Diggs later and asked him how he liked the former president's answer.

"It contained a number of inferences," the solemn young man said.

Most grueling contest in the week before the convention opened was the sloshing duel between Coca Cola and Pepsi Cola for the parched affections of delegations, reporters and free-loaders in general.

"Pepsi has infiltrated our corridor," a Coke man white with rage announced to newsmen at the Conrad Hilton the other day. There followed 48 hours of intensive shoring up of this breakthrough.

Great iron clad Coke containers wheeled into place and opened up with free broadsides. Pepsi's high command, headed by Bernard Reelin, issued a statement saying that after an agonizing reappraisal of the situation, massive retaliation was the only course. He hired two midgets to motivate big papier mache Pepsi bottles and a couple of full sized people to be a horse.

Malcolm Johnson, Coke strategist, may mine the Chicago river near the pier where Pepsi tankers tie up.

BILL DOBLER At City Hall

Sanitary Sewer Improvement

A fellow asked the other day, in apparent seriousness, who the bond promoter at the City Hall was.

The question arose out of reports that a bond issue was under consideration for financing a $4 million sanitary sewer improvement program. "They just won't give up, will they?" inquired this man who had obviously been among the majority voters at the June 26 special election.

Actually, there are a lot of bond promoters both in and out of city government. They do their promoting simply because that seems to be the only answer to many problems. They do not act for financial gain as the true promoter does.

But because a city councilman thinks about a bond issue is no reason to assume he is trying to fleece the taxpayers. Actually there is no one on the Council who has any more reason to want adequate sanitary sewers than any other taxpayer. Also, Council members pay taxes, too, and are not looking for unnecessary burdens along this line. Many of them also want to be re-elected and thus have no desire to be labeled or considered as a big spender.

In the case of sanitary sewers, the big difference lies in the fact that members of the Council and the Board of Sanitary District I are generally more familiar with the facts than is the average citizen. They know, for instance, that present sewer lines were built so long ago that no one even knows for sure who built them.

They know that these lines are so overloaded that raw sewage is being dumped daily into Salt Creek along the entire west side of the city. They are aware of many cases in which sewage has backed up in the lines and overflowed man-holes to lie in stagnant pools upon the ground. They have heard the loud and bitter protests of home owners who have experienced sewage back-up into their basements due to lines which could not carry the load being forced upon them.

They are aware of the dangers inherent in such conditions—the stream pollution, spread of disease and insect growth which is all a part of our inadequate sewer system.

Despite the results of the June 26 special election, these elected officials feel that if the facts were known by the public, there would be overwhelming support of a program to correct the deficiencies. These officials have faith in the good judgment of the people who elected them. They are concerned over finding a way that will assure the play of all facts upon that good judgment.

It is still the opinion of this writer that the people of Lincoln did not say they were through with all financial sacrifice for their community when they voted against the three bond issues on the June 26 ballot. Naturally, home owners felt they already had plenty of taxes on their property. They probably felt the same way last year, the year before and five years ago. They would probably feel that way at almost any given time.

But another prominent feeling at that election was that the issues being voted on, for a variety of reasons, were not worth the sacrifice they called for. That does not mean that for the rest of time nothing for the improvement of the city of Lincoln is worth a sacrifice.

If the election had meant that, there could be nothing but pity for the next generation for they would inherit a tremendous load to carry.

In connection with a possible bond issue and usage fee for sewer improvements, it should also be pointed out that such a plan could replace taxes now being levied for certain purposes. If the city took over the improvement program and the district's disposal plant, a sewage fee would be enacted which would eliminate at least a one-mill levy now being made by the district for operation and maintenance.

Enough of a usage fee would also be applied to do away with a more than $90,000 - a - year city tax item for operation and maintenance of its sewer system. If the usage fee is made a replacement for other direct taxes now being levied, its sting would be much less.

Such a fee would not only mean relief of some property tax, but would bring revenues from sources which now pay nothing for sewer service. This new source of revenue would be the public institutions in Lincoln which pay no taxes and thus have a free ride on sewers.

There is no assurance, of course, that the final decision in this matter of financing will mean the elimination of any taxes. The removal of some tax levies is only a possibility but if officials of the district and city approach the improvement program with honesty, they should arrive at such an end.

The greatest obstacle to such a course of action could easily be a desire by some officials to perpetuate their own activities. If neither the city nor district will agree to give up their present responsibilities on the sewer system, then duplication and inefficiency are bound to be the result.

The Public Pays

Lincoln, Neb.

Once again I say that business should set down on further raises in pay for labor.

Time To Stop It

Ellenville, N.Y.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star:

Every so often I come across people who seem to take a keen delight in making cracks about somebody else's religion or color. As one who knows what it means to be a victim of discrimination, why anybody should be condemned because of race or creed is beyond me.

We will never get rid of the curse of racial hatred and other social evils until we, the people, take our fate into our own hands and live up to the glorious traditions of the Founding Fathers by reorganizing society.

NATHAN PRESSMAN

Inconsistent GOP

Riverton, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The capitalist, Republican New York Times which has been hopeful that Eisenhower would turn away from Democratic ways explains in a review of his administration that "it is surely one of the great paradoxes of recent American political history that the Republicans, who bitterly condemned the New Deal and who particularly opposed the idea of a major role for government in guiding the national economy should have swallowed the basic tinkering techniques of the past and have not attempted to repeal a single New Deal measure."

The Times is in an impasse. It says it wants the old American way back but both old parties have refused to give it. They have given us the other way. The much advertised threat of communism came from the Democrats and the Republicans. They have us fighting windmills while they are giving us socialism. Now those who want the real American way back have no party to vote for.

Married At Late Summer Weddings

MRS. NORVIN D. PEARCE

The chapel of St. Paul Methodist Church was appointed with bouquets of pink carnations and gladioli for the marriage of Miss Donna Boehmer, daughter of Mrs. Almeda Boehmer of Painesville, to Norvin D. Pearce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil M. Pearce of Arnold, on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 12, in the presence of members of the family and a small group of friends, the Rev. Don Littrell, minister of Warren Methodist Church, read the lines of the service and the wedding music was played by Houghton Furr, organist. Mr. Furr also accompanied Mrs. Dick Young, the vocal soloist.

As the matron of honor and bride's only attendant, Mrs. Dick Boehmer appeared in a waltz-length frock of white lace over pink silk tulle, fastened with a beaded bodice and full skirt. She carried a crescent arrangement of white and pink feathered carnations.

David Pearce of Arnold served as best man, and seating the guests were John Bowing of Creston, and Jim Souder, of Merna.

White tulle and handclipped lace over tulle were chosen by the bride for her wedding gown. Re-embroidered scallops of the lace, applied onto a narrow band of tulle formed the V neckline of the sculptured lace bodice, and the abbreviated sleeves were completed by mitts of the lace. The width of the tulle skirt, which was designed in the danseuse length, was emphasized by butterfly panels of lace, and her illusion veil was held by a tiny cap of pearl-trimmed lace. She carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations, gardenias and stephanotis.

Swigart of Nora, which was solemnized Sunday afternoon, Aug. 12, bouquets of white and pink gladioli placed against a background of greenery decorated the chancel of the First Methodist Church at Superior. The lines of the 4 o'clock service were read by the Rev. Robert D. Wigert assisted by the Rev. Lincoln Justice, minister of the Nora Methodist Church, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Joseph W. Boyd of Superior, organist. Mrs. Boyd also accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jewett, Lincoln, vocalists.

Miss Sonia Hershberger of Superior was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaid was Miss Sara Hershberger, Superior, also a sister of the bride. A rounded decolletage and brief sleeves accented the Empire bodice, and below the slim midriff of crushed satinette, the skirt flared into extreme fullness and ended in a whisper train. Her veil of illusion was held by a bandeau of pearls, and she carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis.

A reception was held in the church parlors after which Mr. Swigart and his bride left for a wedding trip to Estes Park, Colo., later to reside at Pender. The skirt is caught into soft fullness beneath the Elizabethan waist and is accented at the back by cascades of tulle ruffles which extend into a train. A coronet of pearls will hold her veil of illusion, and she will carry pink carnations centered with white roses.

NEWS AROUND TOWN

Monday, August 13, 1936 THE LINCOLN STAR 5

WELL — let's see what's going on around town — Hear that a certain very popular Lincoln girl has a brand new and very elegant ornament for her third finger, left hand — And more about that some other day—

LEARNED that Mr. and Mrs. William Cartmell were a Saturday night host and hostess at their home when they entertained the new and the retiring officers of the Gay Nighters Dancing Club. During the evening plans were discussed for the club's approaching season.

The new officers, by the way, are Mr. and Mrs. Ted Randolph, president; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berkshire, vice president; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Darst, secretary, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hinds, treasurer.

Retiring from office were Mr. and Mrs. Cartmell, president; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Randolph who retired as vice-president and moved on to president; Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Porter, secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Eames Irwin, treasurer, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gessner, membership.

SOMEONE told us that Mrs. Jack Stewart and Mrs. Irvin Rosewell returned home on Friday from Evanston, Ill., where they attended workshops in puppetry and a conference of puppeteers in Evanston, Ill.

DUE HOME "about Aug. 20, is Arthur Dobson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dobson, who has been touring Europe for the past two months. It seems that while Mr. Dobson was in Italy he ran into Miss Jean Aitken and Miss Nancy Aitken who also have been touring Europe. The Aitken cousins will be returning home in late August.

UNDERSTAND that a September bride-elect, Miss Virginia Noble — whose marriage to Ronald Steen will take place on Sept. 15 — was complimented last Friday when Mrs. Gene Gessner and Mrs. Howard Jensen were morning coffee hostesses at the home of Mrs. Jensen. Miss Noble was presented with a pottery shower.

BACK home again are Mr. and Mrs. James Carrier who have returned from Ann Arbor, Mich., where they were the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Barnard. Mrs. Carrier, we hear, spent all of the time in Ann Arbor, but Mr. Carrier had business that took him to Chicago and Detroit.

Mrs. Barnard is the former Marguerite Carrier, Delta Gamma at Nebraska.

Brides At Sunday Afternoon Ceremonies

MRS. JESSE EDGAR MICHAEL

Lighted candles and arrangements of Fuji chrysanthemums appointed the chancel of the Methodist Church in Grant where the wedding of Miss Mary Alice Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Keller of Grant, and Jesse Edgar Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Holmes, also of Grant, took place on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 12. The 4:30 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Donald Springer and Mrs. Walter White, who played the wedding music, also accompanied the vocal soloist, Miss Lois Ripa of Wilber.

Mrs. Herbert Newman of Los Alamos, N. Mex., her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Judy Gauger, Miss Betty Stout, Miss Barbara Stout, Mrs. Gerald Schroeder, Miss Jody Chalupa of Wilber and Mrs. Delbert Merritt of Sioux Falls, S.D., wore alike costumes of delphinium blue crystalite over tulle.

The candles were lighted by Mrs. Ron Hastings and Mrs. Robert Brown. Gerald Schroeder served Mr. Michael as best man, and seating the guests were Herbert Newman, Los Alamos, N. Mex.; Marvin Wyman, Cheyenne, Wyo.; Delbert Bassett of Ogallala; Ronald Kline, Wayne Sides and Larry Wyman.

The bride appeared in a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over satin. The low V neckline of the long-sleeved bodice was framed with natural scallops dotted with iridescent sequins, and the extremely wide skirt was given bouffancy with a back panel of alternating ruffles of lace and minutely pleated tulle which extended into a chapel train.

The bride is a senior at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority, and Phi Upsilon Omicron. Mr. Michael also is attending the University of Nebraska.

At an afternoon ceremony on Sunday, Aug. 12, Miss Marvlyn Maurine Barnard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil J. Barnard, became the bride of Andrew Milton Wuster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wuster. Pedestal urns filled with pink asters and gladioli decorated the chancel of the Evangelical Free Church for the service, which was solemnized by the Rev. James Leonard, and Gayne Doolittle, pianist, played the wedding music and accompanied the vocal soloist, Cecil Bliss.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth Glade who wore a ballerina length frock of cameo pink crystalite. Fashioned with a fitted bodice and widely-flaring skirt, her costume was completed by a brief jacket of the crystalite, and she carried a cascade of white and pink gladioli florets frilled with net wearing identical ensembles in blue were the bridesmaids, Miss Bonnie Jean Higel and Miss Claudette Moore. Miss Judy Burdick was the flower girl, and carrying the rings was Stevie Jackson.

Gary Wuster served his brother as best man, and the ushers were Donald Barnard, brother of the bride, and Dean Crewdson. Lighting the candles for the 3 o'clock ceremony were Jim Hall and Allan Hall.

Following the reception for 200 guests held in the church parlors, the couple left for a honeymoon trip to the Black Hills.

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

From our Corner Terrace vacationers this week we learned of travels both near and far—Some of the area's residents were off on their favorite expedition—fishing—and others were gazing at unfamiliar scenery—or visiting relatives. The news, however, isn't limited to vacationers—As a matter of fact activity in Corner Terrace is quite varied and includes such things as neighborhood parties, coffees, house guests—and even news of family reunions.

Instead of the usual "singing in the rain" it was "fishing in the rain" for the Stewart family during their vacation at Battle Lake, Minn. Although there was a constant downpour during their three weeks stay there it did not stop Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Stewart and their son, Virgil Jr., from taking their boats—they just donned their raincoats and fished from the shore. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart have just returned home, but Virgil, Jr., remained in Minnesota where he is spending his time at the resort camp owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Pinckley of Lincoln.

And Mr. and Mrs. Stewart arrived home with just enough time to unpack, repack and be on their way to Topeka, Kan., where they visited briefly with Mrs. Stewart's uncle, Milton Schutt, who accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Stewart back to Lincoln for a week's visit.

Leaving for California on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Leland Sowers, their son, Duane, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shoemaker. The travelers plan to be away two weeks.

On our list of house guests this week is Mrs. Gladys Eaton of Denver who is visiting at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Eaton. Mrs. Eaton will return to her home the coming week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Almquist were at the airport early Saturday morning to greet Mr. Almquist's sister, Mrs. Harris Wilcox and her children, Craig and Lenore, of Bergen, N. Y. From the airport the two families drove directly to Norman where Mrs. Wilcox and her son and daughter, will remain for two weeks as the guests of Mrs. Wilcox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Almquist.

We certainly couldn't let a week pass without mention of at least one coffee in Corner Terrace—and this time the coffee hostess was Mrs. Harold Connolly. The guest list included Mrs. Wendell Sipp, Mrs. Theo Hanneman, Mrs. Kenneth Doermann, Mrs. Albert Nelson, Mrs. Louis Kautzman and Mrs. Don Stinson.

Before we begin on the reunions and the picnics, we want to tell you of another house guest out Corner Terrace way—Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Anderson have had as their guest Mrs. Anderson's aunt, Miss Gladys McConnell of Seattle, who stopped off in Lincoln en route to Chicago where she will attend the Democratic convention.

Now about family reunions—two reunions in one week is quite a record and it was made by Mr. and Mrs. Theo Hanneman and their children, Kenneth, Connie, Kathy and Doug. A week ago Sunday the Hannemans, with two other Lincoln families, went to Syracuse where they spent the day with Mr. Hannemann's relatives. Yesterday the Hannemanns were off to Syracuse again—this time to attend a reunion of Mrs. Hannemann's family.

Sports clothes and a picnic basket were all that the Leland Ward family needed for their outing last Monday evening when they joined relatives from Lincoln, Burr and Mitchell, at a family picnic at Peter Pan Park. The guests from Mitchell, incidentally, were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Ward who are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Ward.

Before we close the books on Corner Terrace for another week we must add names to our vacation list—those of Mrs. William Zinsmaster and her daughter, Billene, who are spending a three weeks holiday in Nevada and California.

Soil Bank Payments

State To Get Money In October

Farmers in Nebraska can expect to receive soil bank payments right around the first of October, though a few might be made to wards the end of September, Robert Webb, state administrative officer for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, said Sunday.

Across the nation, the Department of Agriculture announced that most payments would be made soon after Labor Day, but Webb explained that Nebraska will be behind this schedule.

Before payments can be made, he said, all land must be measured for compliance. In Nebraska, this means the checking of over one and one-half million acres of land.

Nebraska farmers are to receive over $33 million in soil bank payments, Webb said, second only to the farmers in Iowa who will get over $39 million. Nebraska's share represents one-eighth of the total national payments, he said.

State Meeting
ASC Director Webb said that Friday a state-wide meeting was held in Lincoln for 18 state performance supervisors. These men will in turn go to their counties, each one having four or five, and instructing the local personnel in measuring for soil bank compliance.

The entire measuring is expected to take nearly six weeks. This puts the date of payments right around the beginning of October, Webb said, though payments to some farmers will be made sooner, as soon as the administrative machinery will allow.

The reason some states will make earlier payments is that their number of dollars paid out and the total number of acres they have to check are smaller than those of Nebraska, he said.

Webb said that his office has allowed the six weeks to provide sufficient time to do the "big job" we have ahead. "But we will," he said, "get the payments out as soon as possible."

Right To Shock, Cut Bank Corn Asked

OMAHA (U)—Sen. Roman Hruska Saturday telegraphed the Department of Agriculture urging the department to permit cutting and shocking of soil bank acreage corn.

He told Under-Secretary True D. Morse that "in Nebraska the term harvesting is commonly and uniformly construed as husking and placing the corn in the crib—corn is not planted for silage purposes except in a few isolated cases."

He said every effort should be made by the department to construct harvesting "so as to include cutting and shocking corn in stricken (drought) areas."

The soil bank law prohibits "harvesting" unless the secretary of agriculture so permits.

War Paint, Spike Heels End 88th Omaha Indian Pow-Wow

MACY, Neb. (U)—A mixture of modern tastes and traditional rituals made for a colorful show as the 88th annual four-day Omaha Indian Pow-wow drew to a close at Macy Sunday.

Some of the younger Indian women bowed to their modern tendencies by wearing spiked heels with their traditional dance regalia. The Indian gear ranged from war paint to pastel feathers.

Intermittent showers failed to chase the crowd of about 2,000. The rain soaked some of the drums, however, and they were taken out of action temporarily while being dried over fires.

Mary Faith White of Winnebago was named princess of the Pow-wow. Runners-up, in order, were Joan Mallory of Milwaukee and Francis Turner of Macy. Miss Turner was the 1955 princess.

During the ceremonies Miss Turner announced her engagement to Rudolph Clark of Ponca City, Okla., a part Omaha Indian who won second place in the square dancing classification. Miss Turner is a nursing student at South Dakota State College at Brookings.

The princess candidates did a "round dance" in a circle around the drummers. Most of the girls wore white buckskin—and there was evidence of lipstick and mascara.

The pow-wow featured a "stump dance," which has been a highlight at Macy at least 89 years. Bystanders agreed the "stump dance" obviously was a forerunner of the square dance.

Waukon Smith of Winnebago was first place winner in the dancing

STANTON DELAPLANE

The Democratic Convention gets underway today in a humid, shirt-sleeved sort of way.

Mr. Adlai Stevenson has already appeared in shirt sleeves which, I gather, is the badge of the convention. It is a nice convention. For in a c o o l San Francisco, the R e p u b l i c a n s will appear on TV's 65,000,000 screens, unruffled and comfortable in their Sunday

For a mid-West voter, sweating out the August dog days, I imagine this will be mildly irritating. Adlai perspires like everybody else. But the Republicans are cool as so many cucumbers.

Mr. Truman who is not running for anything at all and seems to enjoy it, prances down Michigan Avenue in a grey rain silk suit. The raucous shirt-sleeved reporters bailing his shirt in his wake.

The delegates have gone to shirt-sleeved too. Judging from the lobby of the Sherman Hotel where I am cubby-holed at this moment. From the Chicago journals, I gather that the deal has already been made. All we are waiting now is for the judges' box to hand down the photo finish pictures.

The delegates apparently do not know this. Or if they do, they did not come 1000 miles to find the game is over.

Ag Needs Speed Up Employment

Seasonal agricultural needs largely in the wheat harvest gave a temporary speed-up to the state's labor market activity during July, according to a report from the Nebraska State Labor Department.

A total of 17,222 jobs were filled by the division of employment of fices throughout the state, exceeding July, 1955, by three per cent. Non-farm job placements in July this year were nearly 2 thousand less than in June and more than 1,500 less than in July, 1955.

Job Seekers

On August 1st the number of persons registered as active job seekers totalled 10,006, the highest August 1st total since 1946. On July 1st the total was 10,858, and on August 1st a year ago 7,410 persons were registered.

Scattered industrial lay-offs throughout the state, drought conditions on the farms and students accounted for the increase in applications. Construction placements in July were off 200 from the June total and were more than 500 less than in July, 1955.

Anderson Predicts State Can Get Fort Randall Line In Next Congress

Next year, after Congress convenes, Nebraska will be able to get passage of the Ft. Randall power line, Governor Victor Anderson predicted Sunday upon his return from dedication ceremonies of the Colorado-Big Thompson project near Loveland, Colo.

"I'm very much encouraged. I feel we will be able to get it next year," the governor said. He said he had talked with "top officials" of the Federal Reclamation Bureau and that they understood Nebraska better.

Anderson said Nebraska is asking for the use of power during the summer months, when Nebraska farmers have their peak load. This is the time when demands for power in other states slacken, he said.

Nasser Says He Rejected World Bank's $1 Billion

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—President Nasser told the Egyptian people Friday night the World Bank had offered Egypt a billion-dollar loan to enlarge the Suez Canal but he rejected it.

Nasser made the statement in a speech. He said he was offered the money "even to build a new canal."

He said he rejected the offer with the statement, "We have enough troubles with the canal we have."

Nasser said World Bank President Eugene Black made the offer at a time Egypt was facing "international maneuvers aimed at extending international control over the canal."

In Washington, a spokesman for the World Bank said there was no comment on Nasser's statement.

The Nasser statement was made in a tape-recorded broadcast to the Egyptian and Arab peoples.

and, thus Nebraska could utilize what is now being dumped. Use of the power in Nebraska would be a "good deal" for the Federal Government, Anderson said. In 1953, if Nebraska gets the line, the Government will receive an extra $175,000 and in 1962 this will have increased to $300,000, he said.

Anderson said he had talked to other high government officials and that, considering everything, prospects for the line looked "good."

Nebraska, Iowa Guardsmen Begin 15-Day Encampment

CAMP RIPLEY, Minn. (AP)—Some 9,700 Iowa and Nebraska National Guardsmen of the 33rd Division arrived here Sunday on 10 special trains, 20 commercial buses and scores of government vehicles to begin 15 days of summer training.

The guardsmen lugged their belongings into tents which were already set up for them on the sprawling training ground some 100 miles northwest of Minneapolis.

The guardsmen will be given specialized training and work on problems before breaking camp. While in the field, they will live in pup tents.

Govs. Victor E. Anderson of Nebraska and Leo A. Hoegh of Iowa are scheduled to review troops during Thursday's Governors' Day activities.

Air Guard Training Said 'Best Ever'

Nebraska's unit of the Air National Guard, just returned from two weeks training at Natrona County Airport, Casper, Wyo., participated in the "best field training" the unit has ever had, wing commander Col. John M. Campbell said Sunday.

He said the "wing as a whole performed in an especially fine manner," and that "co-operation between units from Nebraska and Iowa was never better."

Campbell said he was proud of the record of the wing in qualifying every tactical pilot in aerial gunnery. He called it "quite a feat." He said the Nebraska unit had never before accomplished the record and that it was unusual even for units on active duty.

The wing spent 15 days at the Wyoming base, a permanent training site for the Air National Guard. The tour was conducted without any air craft accidents and with no serious ground accidents, Campbell said.

"The people of Nebraska can be proud of the caliber of the officers and airmen making up the Air National Guard," Campbell said. "They were able to carry on a mission identical to a full-time unit, and perform in a highly satisfactory manner as measured by the same standards as full time personnel," he concluded.

The guardsmen will be given specialized training and work on problems before breaking camp. While in the field, they will live in pup tents.

18 Irrigation Projects To Be Viewed

HASTINGS, Neb.—The 11th annual Adams County Irrigation Tour will be held Wednesday beginning at 1:30 p.m. on the Dale Sergeant farm, 1 1/2 miles west of Juniata.

The mobile tour will pass 18 selected irrigation projects for the inspection and observation by the farmers in the Adams County area.

Four stops will be made during the tour for a close look at a natural grain dryer, various irrigated corn fields, alfalfa borders, gravity irrigation flow, irrigation efficiencies, pump procedures and crop rotation.

Those who will explain the phases include Paul Fischbach, extension irrigation engineer from the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture; Gerald McConnell of the Soil Conservation Service and Howard Temple, Adams County extension director.

Last year some 500 farmers attended the irrigation tour, which will conclude this year at the Lloyd Reiners farm, with a watermelon feed.

Sheriff George W. Hatcher said Nesmith, a 28-year-old lumber worker of nearby Toombsboro, is being held on several minor charges including drunken and disorderly conduct.

Explosion Levels New Mo. School; 'Sure Sabotage'

GOLDEN CITY, Mo. (AP)—An explosion leveled two partially completed walls of a new high school building here shortly before dawn Sunday.

City Marshal Craydon Lyons said he believes that a "large amount of dynamite, probably a case," shattered the one-story, brick and concrete block structure, which was about one third completed. No one was injured.

"I'm sure it was sabotage," said Lyons.

However, Lyons said he had no idea as to why anyone would deliberately dynamite the building. Its construction had stirred no controversy in this southwest Missouri town, he said.

Golden City, which has a population of about 850, is 35 miles west of Springfield.

If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number.
